JUST FIVE MINUTES

TTERE we are with one foot-II over the threshold of the . New Year. Once again the greetings are over, the handshakes accompanied by good wishes while the ring that formed up to sing "Autd Lang Syne" is scattered all over the place. But if you notice, Time rolls on as it ever did and will until the morning of Eternity, it is we who mark the divisions. It is we who explode fire crackers, ring the bells, and make the night hideous with the drone of the bappipes, as the New Year Time itself ignores our calendars and our arbitrary in slipping from 1980 to 1981, Saturday was much like Sunday, and today very much like yesterday.

In other words, if the future is to differ from the past, it is of no use relying upon Time. We must rely upon ourselves if this year is to be different from last year.

TYTE do not know if people do make resolutions now perhaps the very young continue to keep a diary with determination for the first few days of January, Perhaps someone is making up his mind to work harder, to succeed in his. job; to change his job. And perhaps older people are making sentimental vows to restate a resolution they falled to keep for a couple of

But let's face, it, it needs more than a day scribbled off the calendar to change the needs more than a senti mental handshake foffered under the effect of a merry party to make us the kind of person we want to be.

if there was one universal gif we could bestow, upon ourselves no less than upon you and mankind in general, it would be five minutes o courage. And if during that five minutes, we would face up to the/kind of person we really are, then circumstances which have seemed too much for us, would change. For who are we? What are we really like? Not what others think we are, but the person we know ourselves to be. Five minutes of courage would enable us self-discovery.

ENIVE minutes of courage would enable us to accomplish what we always wished to do. The reason most of us give for not doing anything is that we have no time; the cards are stacked against us; or it would be of no use. This applies to our relation with other people; an idea which placed upon a practical basis might change the world; a manuscript we are afraid will fall; the fear of looking a

The world has always been the same, and the highlights of man'a history is the story of people who dared, who had the courage to stake everything upon something they believed in. If it were not so, we should today be huddling in the skin of some animal in a draughty nook of a desolate

To say that all that has been accomplished is all that will be accomplished, is nonsense. The world has grown small but that began when the first man scopped out a tree trunk and sailed across a mile of water. There is still the uncharted universe awaiting the explorer. Every book has been written. Nonsensel Evan this year will see a book or ! two original in theme and

Move against volunteers aiding rebels

Washington, Jan. 1. The State Department announced yesterday that the United States would take "the most serious view" of any intervention in Laos by Chinese Communist or other forces.

a statement issued a few hours after President Eisenhower had consulted with his top diplomatic, military and intelligence advisers, the State Department described the situation in Laos as "grave."

RUSH IN TROOPS

New York, Jan. 1. Air transport units at several US Air Force bases were on the alert today with their big C-130 troop carriers reported ready to ferry troops to South-east Asia should the Laos situation require it.

Military sources in San Francisco said an air transport unit at nearby Travis Air Force Base was on a "stepped-up preparedness" footing, ready to start an airlift.

in South Carolina, announcing its alert, said it was called "because of the world situation." A similar alert was ordered at Sewart Air Force Base near Nashville, Tennessee. The Shaw announcement said "the Tactical Air Command's C-130s are being repositioned for any eventuality." At Langley Air Force Base in Virginia, a spokesman for Tactical Air Command Headquarters said such alerts were part of " a routine of keeping the bases on their toes.-Reuter.

SHOCK

London, Jan. 1. Alcoholic New Year revellers got a shock last night in the West End They saw a pink elephant lumbering down fashionable Park-lane, and the elephant was a real one, painted pink, on its way to a night club appearance,—Reuter.

It said the U.S. was consulting allied governments following the reports of intervention in Laco from the outside.

"Mindful of its obligations under the Scate, the U.S. Government would take the most serious view of any intervention in Laos by the Chinese Communists or Vietminh armed forces or others in support of the Communist Pathot Lao who are in rebellion against the Royal Liotian Government," it sald.

YOU mysophobe?

You don't realise it. it's quite possible that you're a mysophobeand in this Colony that menace.

However, there is hope for you, so just pay attention and I'll explain both your ailment and its cure. Mysophobes are compulsive hand washers, according to some clod who's been studying this phenomenon in a nation-wide survey of-guess where?--the United States. There is some kind of a norm for hand washing, apparently, Before and after meals, on Sundays and all days of obligation, I suppose. But, if you scrub your mitts constantly and unnecessarily, then you're quite batty-and a chronic mysophobe into the bargain. MARVEL

Fortunately, modern science has come to the rescue in the form of that medical marvel chlorpromazine. There was a girl back in the States who used to wash her paws over 40 times a day, according to this reseacher chap. But, after a course of chlorpromazine, she was completely cured, he claims. don't know whether this means the has given up washing her hands altogether because he wasn't too precise on that point, The wonder drug induces a distaste for soap and water, and makes a body forget all about cleanliness being next to godliness. The economies are obvious. Think of the saving that can be made in an average household by dispensing with soap and water whilst the entire family stays on a chlorpromazine If these pills had been on the market earlier, there'd have been no need for piping water across the border just so people could indulge in their mysophobic complexes. Ask yourself now: "When did wash my hands last — and why?" Assuming you did have a wash when you stumbled out of bed this morning, count the number of times you've' dipped your dooks in the washbasin since. It may startle you. Don't panie. Phone your physician at once. He can save you from yourself-and help I conserve water too..

South China survive fantastic decision to win vital match

Ey I. MacTAVISH

South China, the defending champions, consolidated their position at the top of the League when, before a huge 35,000 crowd, they defeated Tung Wah by two goals to one in a game that was charged with controversy.... drama...incident...and gave rise to a new principle in football --- play to the whistle...and after it!!!

The Hongkong Stadium fairly bristled to the fluctuating fortunes of the two teams but as they left the Stadium thousands of the fans were still arguing many of the happenings in a match in which the referee emerged more important to the final result than either of the two competing teams.

time immemorial players have been told: 'Play to the whistle," It is a sound sensible dictum . . . or it was fintil yesterday . . . for at the referce's lips the whistle becomes the instrument of supreme soccer authority: play starts with it, and finishes with it, or so we thought. Yesterday we-mid South China-found out how wrong we were. Let me reconstruct the siturtion for you. With 24 minutes of the game gone and South China ahead by one goal to all reeferce Petrie awarded an Indirect free-kick to Tung Walt about 14 yards from the champions' goal-line.

History made

After the usual jockeying for position all looked set for the kick to be taken and Lo Kwol:tal, the Tung Wah inside-right. pushed the ball to one side towards Yiu Cheuk-yin. As the little Colony star swung his foot back to shoot, Petrie blew his whistle . . . and, no matter what arguments are advanced . . . the ball by every accepted principle was immediately dear! However, Ylu Cheuk-yin continued the swing of his boot. With the concentration of the South China defenders instinc-tively relaxed by the sound of the whistle the ball flew into the back of the net . . . and to the consternation of the defenders and speciators, but to the delight of Tung Wah, Petrie, after a moment of hesitation swung round and pointed to the centra

And so history was made. A

It was an astonishing decision The fact that the referee may have blown for an offence by a defender makes no difference whatsoever for the mere act of blowing the whistle stopped play, made the ball "dead" . . . and as far as I, and the many football officials with whom later discussed the point, know there is no provision for applying any kind of "advantage rule" after the whistle has gone.

Penalty-kick

If it is to be assumed that play can in fact continue legally AFTER the whistle I can forcsee some strange happenings abead.

However, the providential fenders. pendulum has a strange way of awinging in compensation and four minutes before the interval another vital decision produced the goal which decided the game. Again the crowd howled their disapproval of the referee's decision which gave South China a penalty-kick . . but at the time, and even more so in reflection I thought Petrie was absolutely right. I thought was an excellent decision. It came about like this. In a strong South China at-the Tung Wah penalty area have scored when the winger away to the left of the goal and crossed the ball but Mok as Ho Cheung-yau rose in the hesitated and the chance was air to head it on Ng Wal-man lost. threw himself desperately into the tackle rather like a water polo player trying to outreach Tung Wah attack and it was no his opponent. His bent arm and surprise when South China took unorthodox tackie culte definite- the lead after 15 minutes . ly prevented the South China and what a goal it was, man from getting to the ball and as they crashed to the ground in a heap the referee had no ball forward and swept an achesitation in pointing to the curate pass over Lo Pak's head

Injured

Mok Chun-wah hit a flerce drive into the net to win the our greatest football entertainer game . . . but the Tung Wah defenders were bitter about the award and they had many supporters for their point of view among the crowd. I still think the referee was right.

The game was a gruelling noquarter offair from beginning to end. It did not have a lot of classy football but it kept the tems in their souts right to the end At times the tackling-pagilcularly by the Tung Wah wifig-halves-was bone-crushing and Scuth China had a mumber of key players injured during i the game.

South China deserved their | mouth . . . but it took a fearvictory if only for the re- less dive by Lau Kin-cheung to freshing enthusiasm of their preserve South China's equality. play. They were a team in the He threw himself almost on top best sense of the word and of Yiu Cheuk-yin's boot when when things were not going the inside left looked certain to too well every man was ready score. to lend a hand where it was most needed.

Goalkeeper Lau Kin-cheung. apart from an astonishing error late in the game which almost cost his side a precious point, had a grand outing and he got excellent support from his fullbacks and half-backs. If the top defensive honours go to Young So Po-on a special mention must be made of a courageous display by Luk Tak-hay who was badly injured just before the interval but who, came back to give a plucky performance although obviously in great pain. I spoke to him after the game and his face gave the impression that he had just finished ten punishing rounds with Sugar Ray Robinson . . . or Floyd Patter-

Up front Lee Tak-wai was the grafter. Ho Cheung-yau the brains, Mok Chun-wah the goalscorer and Wong Chi-keung the sparkling entertainer. The sole disappointment was Kwok Yau who had one of his poorest games in a long time.

Booked

Tung Wah got good service from Yong Pui-dor and his browny full-backs but while Ko Po-keung was never really comfortable against lively Lee Taltwai, Chan Fai-hung and Wal-man roared through the goal was scored AFTER the proceedings with typical abandon. Chan was booked by the crossbar and then from the foot referee after one biting tackle on Kwok Yau and I lost count of the times Ng was whistled up for his over-zealous efforts.

> While Yiu Cheuk-yin was in the picture Tung Wah always looked good in attack but when the little inside-left faded his whole side faded

Lo Kwok-tai worked hard enough but he missed three slmple chances to score and his display must be reviewed against that background. It seemed that Lam Korn-tong was still finding the conversion to centre-forwar too much for him and neither winger was able to get the better of the South China de-

The teams got a big 1901 welcome from a capacity crowd within the Stadium walls and another big one on the hillside outside when they appeared.

Took the lead

South China were gulckly on the move. First a benutifully pass from controlled Chéung-yau gave Weng Chikeung a chance but Yong Puldor saved the winger's shot.

Wong was soon at it again tack carried diagonally across and Mok Chun-wah shoulds
